

Faculty Senate Task Force on University Status
Town Hall Meetings
March 2013

Middle States reported in their 2012 accreditation report that Stockton College:

- Placed a commendable emphasis on teaching
- Demonstrated a commitment to student learning
- Fostered creative, inter-disciplinary work
- Practiced a shared planning process
- Built a strong correlation between institutional mission, goals and financial planning

Definition of a

In New Jersey, an institution that offers graduate and undergraduate degrees in a variety of academic disciplines and professional fields may seek status as a comprehensive university. Such institutions emphasize teaching, and are distinguished from the state's six research universities.

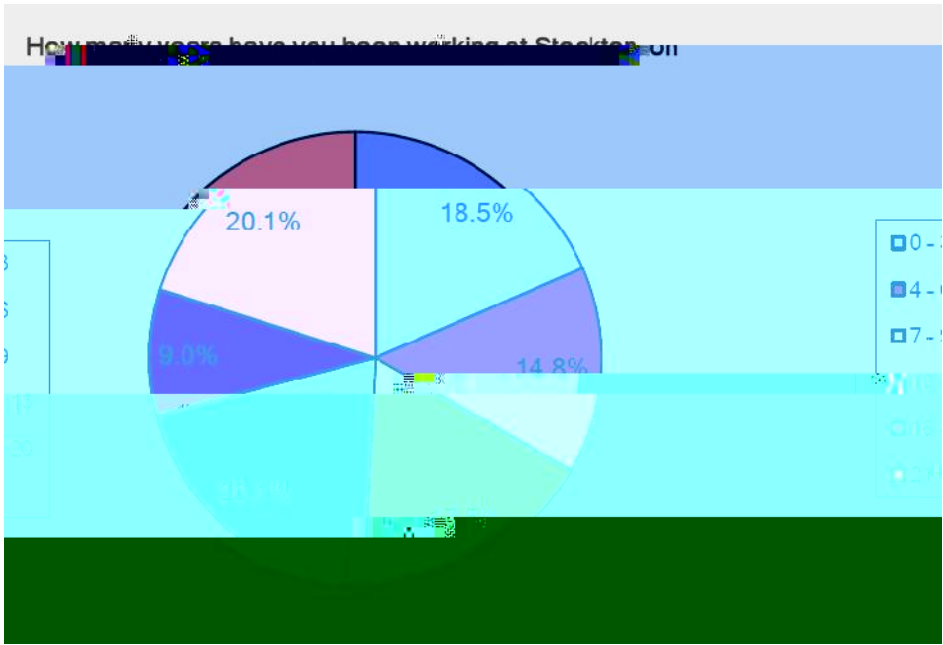

To qualify for university status, an institution must meet national standards for inclusion as a M

- Comprehensive universities, by definition, emphasize teaching at the undergraduate and master's levels.
 - Research universities, by contrast, place a heavier emphasis on basic and applied research and on Ph.D. programs
 - Since 2010, Stockton has met both the Carnegie classification and New Jersey criteria to become a comprehensive university

Current New Jersey

- September 2012: Faculty Senate President proposes creation of a Task Force on University Status followed by a campus-wide call for task force nominations
 - October 2012: Faculty Senate Executive Committee proposes a slate of Task Force members to the full Faculty Senate, which approves the proposal. Faculty Senate votes on selection of a Senate Representative to the Task Force (Michelle McDonald).
 - November-December 2012: Task Force researches and drafts faculty and staff surveys; these are launched in January and February 2013.
 - January-February 2013: Task Force researched and drafts student and alumni surveys; these are launched in March 2013
 - First round of Campus Town Hall Meetings held in March 2013.

FACULTY:

Low (1-4): 28%

Moderate (5-6): 13%

High (7-10): 59%

1999/2000: Graduate Students represented 4% of the total full-time enrollment (or FTE)

2009/2010: Graduate Students represented 6% of the total full-time enrollment (or FTE)

2012/2013: Graduate Students represent 6.7% of the total full-time enrollment (or FTE)

- There would not be a reduction in the number of classes taught, nor a decline or rise in class size
 - There would not be a reduction in the number of general studies courses taught
 - There would not be an effort to hire faculty solely for graduate teaching (there is one exception, our current doctoral program, but all master's programs hire faculty for both graduate and undergraduate teaching)
 - Graduate teaching would not become compulsory
 - There would be no additional accreditation required; external reviewers evaluating whether Stockton could be called a comprehensive university would do so on the basis of our existing programs—with all current accreditation processes in place
 - Standards for promotion and tenure remain the prerogative of each program; an adjustment is not required in transition from college to comprehensive university status

- An increase in applications
- An increase in the quality of applications
- More competitive for external funding
- More competitive for international student exchange programs
- No real impact on external ranking (we are already considered with universities in both our
