

Hughes Center to Host Insider's Look at Making of Affordable Care Act on April 6

Posted by frgazette on March 30, 2015

Ruth J. Katz, director of the Health, Medicine and Society Program at The Aspen Institute, an educational and policy studies organization based in Washington, D.C., will share her insights at Stockton University on April 6, when she presents: "The Making of the Affordable Care Act: A Insider's Account of Healthcare Policymaking." Katz was the lead Democratic committee staff member on the Drug Administration, and national health reform efforts. Katz was the lead Democratic committee staff member on the public health components of the health reform initiative passed by the House in November 2009.