The FBI and US State Department estimate that 250,000-500,000 girls are used in prostitution rings. The majority of these girls are not foreigners, but U.S. residents who are coerced through manipulation and threats, FREE International stated.

“We cannot pretend that this is not happening in our schools,” Hochhalter said. “As ‘Say Something’ presenters converse with students and educators, we have found that this is an issue affecting a majority of schools.”
