Galloway Township, NJ- Nearly 200 students, faculty, staff and community members participated in The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey's Bubbles for Autism event on campus today.

Robert Ross, assistant director of Counseling and Health Services, said, "This year was the fourth year that we've held the event on campus and we drew the largest crowd ever."

Ross noted that many student organizations were involved in the promotion of the event, and people across the campus who were not able to attend are continuing to donate to the cause.
