Galloway, NJ – ChoreoProject 35, a dance concert performed in intimate proximity with the audience in the style of the loft performances in New York City, will showcase new choreographers and fresh works in early December at The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey.

“ChoreoProject’s 25-year history is one of innovation from young voices, and has launched the choreographic careers of many New Jersey dance artists,” said Rain Ross, assistant professor of Dance in the School of Arts and Humanities.

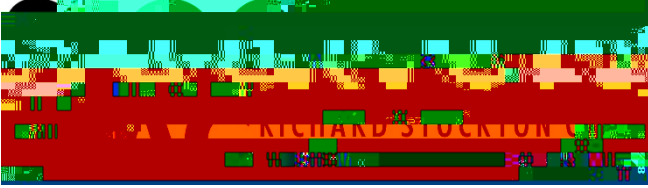

Area students involved in the production include: Dylan Brierly and Victoria Starner of Manahawkin, Lauren Kropa, Jessica Opdyke and Kahra Woolverton of Jackson, Ashley Joas of Waterford Works, Emalee Holady and Geanna DiMauro of Galloway, Morgan Phillips of Cape May Court House, Shannon Losse of Folsom and Amy Plantarich of Somers Point.

Performances will be held on Thursday, Dec. 5, 2013 through Saturday, Dec. 7 at 7:30 p.m.; and on Sunday, Dec. 8 at 3 p.m. in Stockton’s Experimental Theatre in the Performing Arts Center on the college’s Galloway campus.

Tickets are $10, or $8 for students and seniors with ID. Purchase Tickets at the Box Office (609) 652-9000.

“This show sells out, so get your tickets early,” Ross said. “Come and experience dance close up.”
