The year 2015 marks several milestone 50th anniversary achievements in the career of the poet laureate of rock-and-roll and the preeminent singer-songwriter of modern times, Bob Dylan.

Dylan went electric in 1965 and discovered Levon and the Hawks (who became The Band) at the South Jersey Shore. Dylan's new electric band included Levon Helm and Robbie Robertson and performed its first show in Forest Hills, NY, on Aug. 28, 1965, the same date as Dylan Fest AC.
