

After Kristallnacht (“the night of broken glass”) on Nov. 9-10, 1938, Jews were targeted synagogues and Jewish homes and businesses, the protests were suppressed. Kristallnacht refers to the shards of shattered glass that littered the streets of the attack. Eventually all Jewish businesses were sold, usually at a loss, and taken over by non-Jews, or closed.

“Final Sale” is free, open to the public and will be viewed by over 100,000 students and educators, as part of the state’s mandate to teach about the Holocaust and genocide. Sponsors of the exhibit have provided funds to bring school buses and their teachers to the exhibit for guided tours.

-

-continued from page 1 -

are being trained as tour guides. To make a reservation for groups or schools, call The Sara and Sam Schoffer Holocaust Resource Center at Stockton at 609-652-4699.

The exhibit will be presented in Stockton's C & D Wing atrium on the main campus at 101 Vera King Farris Drive, Galloway, NJ, and can be seen seven days a week from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m.

#