

Friday, November 06, 2015

Contact: Maryjane Briant
News and Media Relations Director
Galloway, NJ 08205
Maryjane.Briant@stockton.edu
(609) 652-4593
www.stockton.edu/media

Galloway, NJ – Stockton University will host a lecture and panel addressing world population, poverty and hunger on Tuesday, Nov. 17 from 4:30 - 6 p.m. in the Campus Center Theatre as part of International Education Week. The event, sponsored by the Stockton Office of Global Engagement in collaboration with the Stockton Center on Successful Aging, is free and open to the public.

The lecture by Kwan S. Kim, Ph.D., will review the magnitude of global poverty, and identify sources of vulnerability facing the poor before exploring local, national, and global actions needed to end extreme poverty and hunger in the context of social justice. Kim is Professor Emeritus of Economics; Fellow, Kellogg Institute for International Studies and Liu Institute for Asian Studies, all at the University of Notre Dame. His lecture is underwritten by Notre Dame's Alumni Association and South Jersey Club and honors the memory o

-continued from page 1 -

flagship presentation, “Seven Revolutions: Scanning the Horizon Out to the Year 2035 and Beyond.” Wright presents sessions about UNFPA’s projects conducted in 140 countries and territories designed to enable and empower young people to grow up safely and pursue their own goals and aspirations. Aughenbaugh and Wright will give separate presentations during the week. To view the complete schedule, visit www.stockton.edu/iew

For more information, contact India Karavackas at (609) 652-3537 or via email at India.Karavackas@stockton.edu

#