Galloway, NJ – What's in your attic? Stockton University's Kramer Hall instructional site and the Noyes Museum of Art are partnering with the Town of Hammonton to host two exhibits throughout the year celebrating the town's sesquicentennial celebration. The organizers are seeking historical items related to Hammonton from community members and artists to be on loan during the exhibition periods.

The first themed exhibit, "Industry," will run Tuesday, March 1 – Monday, Aug. 22, 2016.

The second themed exhibit, "Agriculture," will run Monday, Sept. 5 – Friday, Dec. 9, 2016.

Possible items include objects, documents or photographs related to the garment, sewing, shoe, textile, glass, banking and railroad industries. There are some size and space limitations, and interested donors are encouraged to email a picture and description of the item(s) to: Ginna Petrillo at Ginna.Petrillo@stockton.edu.

Artists from the community are asked to consider exhibiting 2-D or 3-D art work that has historical relevance to any of the various industries related to Hammonton. If interested, email images directly to Michael Cagno at mcagno@noyesmuseum.org.

For more information about the loan process or how larger items may be incorporated in the exhibit, call 609-626-3840.
