

Stockton's Unified Black Students Society to Present 40th Anniversary Kwanzaa Celebration

Dec. 4 Celebration to Include Dance, Drumming, Traditional Costume

For Immediate Release; Coverage invited

Monday, November 16, 2015

Contact: Susan Allen
News and Media Relations
Galloway, NJ 08205
Susan.Allen@stockton.edu
(609) 652-4790
www.stockton.edu/media

Galloway, NJ – The Unified Black Students Society (UBSS) at Stockton University will host its 40th anniversary Kwanzaa celebration at the Galloway campus on Friday, Dec. 4, 2015.

Stockton's Kwanzaa event has been a cultural tradition for four decades and is believed to be one of the largest and oldest Kwanzaa celebrations in southern New Jersey. Doors open at 7 p.m. in the Campus Center Event Room. Traditional attire is encouraged, and donations for Feed The Children will be accepted.

The free event is open to the public and will include music and performances by Afro-One Dance, Drama and Drum Theatre, Inc. and by students in Dr. Patricia Reid-Merritt's African-American Dance class. Reid-Merritt is Distinguished Professor of Social Work and Africana Studies.

#