program is an in-depth internship experience, where students have an opportunity to apply classroom learning to real-life situations. Work in social agencies under the supervision of experienced social work field instructors, last year students provided nearly 40,000 hours of service to individuals, families, and communities in Atlantic and surrounding counties.

The Best Social Work Program, an online business launched in 2012 to provide free resources to anyone interested in social work degrees and careers, said, "Stockton University's School of Social and Behavioral Sciences offers an affordable MSW degree program designed to equip and educate professional social workers."

Using NCES College Navigator, the raters selected schools offering an MSW in New England, Mid-Atlantic, and southeastern states. The Best Social Work Programs compiled the list of accredited programs and ranked them based on affordability. Data was gathered from the NCES College Navigator database. (The Best Social Work Programs assumed that students would take 9 credits a term, whereas students enrolled in most social work programs take approximately 15 credits a term.)

Graduates of Stockton's MSW programs have a 6(s)8.9MSWClick for the full report.
