O'Hanlon is working with the Office of Service-Learning and the School of General Studies as well as the Center for Community Engagement in designing and implementing community engagement training and projects for the year.

"Having Erin here is practicing what we preach about creating social change," Tomé said.

Stockton is again showing its commitment to the community by participating in the Annual New Jersey Employees Charitable Campaign (NJSECC).

The college community raised $34,000 last year, helping to support organizations that provide health, welfare and human services throughout the county and state. This year the college hopes for even more employee participation, with a goal of $36,000.

The Charitable Campaign kickoff and breakfast will be held on Thursday, Nov. 7 in the Campus Center Events Room. Breakfast will be available at 6:30 a.m. for the night crew and again at 8:30 a.m. for the day shift. The community is invited to enter the raffle for a chance to win a free reserved parking space for one academic year in the gated lot next to Lot 7. This raffle is for anyone who pledges or donates through the month of October and by 10 a.m. on Nov. 7.

There also will be weekly drawings for prizes donated by the Stockton community, including a $200 gift certificate to the Stockton Seaview Hotel and Golf Club; two tickets to the 2014 Scholarship Benefit Gala, and more. Anyone who submits a pledge card or makes a one-time donation will be eligible for the drawings. Pledges can be made online at NJECC website or by filling out pledge cards at school or department offices. Pledge cards also will be available at the Nov. 7 breakfast.
